NEW YORK, July 25.—Shipping from the spotlight of acclaim for a time, Wiley Post, round the world record flier, today busied himself with personal and business affairs, but prepared for another outburst of adulation tomorrow.

With all the traditional fanfare of a Manhattan welcome to distinguished guests, the daring Oklahoman, perched atop his blue and white "Winnie Mae" monoplane, tomorrow will ride up Broadway to receive the official welcome from Mayor John P. O'Brien, the city's medal of honor for valorous deeds, and the acclaim of thousands who haven't yet had a chance to cheer Post's feat of girdling the world in slightly more than seven days.

Following the parade and ceremonies at city hall, Post will be whirled uptown for a luncheon in his honor at which other noted fliers will be present and representatives of the aviation industry will pay tribute to his flight.

PA NEW C OBSERVES

No new detours are noted in the local district, according to the De-

State Highway Department. The bulletin is kept posted in the lobby

It's "blackbird time" up on the streets the trees are covered with the transient birds at night.

During these dry days the Lions the clubmen get such a favorable weather streak to play off matches.

President Issues Call To Economic Arms In Radio Address To Nation

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The America's dusty and creaking wheels of industry labored into action today following President Roosevelt's radio call to economic arms heard last night by anxious millions.

Delivering the most momentous address since his inauguration, the president held out a golden promise of lasting prosperity, but bluntly told the American people he could deliver the goods only with their help.

Thousands Send Wire To White House

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The White House was almost literally deluged today with telegraphic responses to President Roosevelt's appeal for employer and labor cooperation in the operation of the national recovery act.

Uncounted thousands of messages had been received up to 9 o'clock this morning and there appeared no diminution of the stream which flowed steadily throughout the night.

The first message was received a few minutes after Mr. Roosevelt finished speaking at 9:52 p. m. and then the deluge started.

Two telegraph operators worked throughout the night in the White House executive offices and were still at their wires this morning. In addition, a veritable army of Telegram messenger boys carried stacks of blue and yellow envelopes from the main offices a few blocks away.

The telegraphic response for which the president asked, probably will be greater than was ever accorded a presidential utterance officials said.

Foreign Views On Roosevelt's Speech

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 25.—British officials today read with keen interest the radio address of President Roosevelt urging nationwide cooperation in restoration of industry and prosperity.

Authoritative comment was withheld on the grounds the speech concerns only internal matters. But the effect of his appeal is being awaited with avid anticipation. Britain is eager to absorb for her own benefit whatever concrete conclusions may be demonstrated by the American program.

PARIS, July 25.—The French press today declined to register enthusiasm over the radio appeal of President Roosevelt for nationwide cooperation in restoring prosperity.

"The president's message is not clear," the newspaper L'Intransigeant said. "It is more like a sermon than a program."

may be stocked and in time will become one of the best fishing places

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July

Urschel, multi-millionaire oil magnate, today were expected to establish contact with the victim's family as police and federal authorities were observing a 24 hour halt in their investigation.

R. H. Colvin, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ordered his operatives last night to suspend the search for a full day.

Sheriff's deputies likewise were directed to withdraw temporarily from the case to give the two machine gun abductors of Urschel an opportunity to communicate with E.
E. Kirkpatrick, associate of the missing man, who has been designated as temporary go-between.

Officials Withdrawn

Authorities were withdrawn at the request of Mrs. Bernice Slick Urschel, who witnessed her husband's abduction on the sun porch of the Urschel mansion Saturday night.

Desperate and grief-stricken at the absence of word from the kidnapers, Mrs. Urschel promised today that she would not prosecute if her husband is returned safely.

"I am interested only in the safe return of Mr. Urschel, and not in what happens to the kidnapers after his return," she told Colvin in requesting that the investigation be halted.

Flying Flotilla Heads North

NEW YORK, July 25.— Bound for home and another mass flight across the ocean, the 24 seaplanes from distant Italy took off from Floyd Bennett Airport for Shediac, N. B., on the first stretch of their return voyage.

General Italo Balbo, his dress uniform of white changed to one of working blue, shot away from Jamaica Bay at 10 a. m. (EDT), with clocklike precision, the other seaplanes followed his flagship into the air.

Enroute To New Brunswick

While the sky was overcast above the airport and a brisk wind was blowing, weather conditions to the north were reported as favorable.
General Balbo had postponed his takeoff yesterday due to fog along the route from Boston to New Brunswick.

In groups of three, the seaplanes skimmed like so many aerial skaters over the choppy waters of Jamaica Bay and soared easily aloft.

Each triad loafed lazily in the haze over the airport until the entire flying flotilla was in the air.

The mass of planes then assumed its customary aerial formation in two sections of twelve ships each.
With 48 motors drumming forth a farewell song of the airways, the aerocade headed toward the north.

Flying high, wide and handsome,
the air fleet passed over Bay Shore,
Long Island, at 10:40 a. m.

The planes took off in reverse

Police Probe Brutal Crime At San Diego

No California Killing Since Marion Parker Case, Has Been So Revolting

YOUTH'S BODY IS MUTILATED

(International News Service) San Diego, Cal., July 25.—Over a blood stained trail of six unsolved murders detectives backtracked today in an effort to find a clew to the seventh and most brutal murder of them all—that of little 7-year-old Dalbert Aposhian whose mutilated body was found in San Diego Bay yesterday.

Police Chief Harry Raymond, formerly of Los Angeles, said that no killing since the murder of Marian Parker, Los Angeles school girl, by William Hickman, "The Fox," several years ago, has been so horrifying.

Still showing signs of weakness from the operation, Mrs. McPherson from time to time closed her eyes and gasped as newspapermen hurled numerous questions at her. "I Don't Know"

To many of them that had to deal with the divorce threat of dimpled, portly David Hutton, Jr., her baritone singing, vaudeville performing husband, she gasped: "I don't know. Please don't ask me about the divorce action. I can't tell you a thing until I get back to Los Angeles and my dear David. "After all, you know, I still love him, and I am sure he loves me too, and that everything is all a mistake."

PRESIDENT ISSUES CALL TO ECONOMIC ARMS IN ADDRESS

the giant wheels of his national recovery machine were just beginning to turn. It was a supreme effort to accelerate their motion.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke over a nationwide radio hookup, and directed his words particularly to the conference of governors gathered in San Francisco and representing the people of these United States.

Foundation Laid. The foundation stones for prosperity have been hewn, the president declared. Courses for the future have been charted. There must come now, to bring success, and in return for rounded governmental leadership, an unstinting support in the national drive to raise farm prices and halt the creeping paralysis of unemployment.

The country moving toward better times has been done. He reviewed the work to that end accomplished to date since March fourth and found it good. From now on, said Mr. Roosevelt, it is up to the American people.

The president made it bluntly clear that he does not consider his recovery program a "cure-all" and does not believe in panaceas. We took pains to point out that it was based on the oldest of principles—that on which this government was founded—that all working together, can accomplish what one cannot do.

Confidence Expressed. Confidence that agriculture and industry would fall in line was clearly expressed. At the same time, the president did not minimize the dangers which might accrue should any group shirk its job. He pictured the past four years as "economic hell," and warned that failure to cooperate in the effort to restore commodity prices, produce a living wage for the employed, reduce unemployment and at the same time provide a fair investment for capital, would mean a return to such conditions.

In its essence, however, the address of the president was one of intense optimism.

"We have built a granite foundation in a period of confusion," he said. "I cannot guarantee the success of this nation-wide plan, but the people of this country can guarantee its success."

General Trade Covenant. The major note struck in the speech embraced a fervent and often repeated appeal to industry to enter the general trade covenant for maximum work hours and minimum wages. At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt outlined his plan for cutting agricultural production to fit the nation's demands and thus raising the price of farm commodities. Summing the difficulties to be overcome, he said:

"For many years the two great barriers to a normal prosperity have been low farm prices and the creeping paralysis of unemployment. These factors have cut the purchasing power of the country in half. I promised action. Congress did its part when it passed the farm and the industrial recovery acts. "Today we are putting these two acts to work, and they will work if people understand their plain objectives."

Need Cooperation Of All. Mr. Roosevelt said his great recovery program was a result of careful study which convinced him that individual, local, or even disjointed federal effort must fail of its object—to produce sound prosperity. "Therefore," he went on, "a rounded leadership by the federal government had become a necessity both of theory and of fact."

He added: "Last autumn, on several occasions, I expressed my faith that we can make possible by Democratic self-discipline in industry general increases in wages and shortening of hours sufficient to enable industry to pay its own workers enough to let those workers buy and use the things that their labor produces. This can be done only if we permit and encourage cooperative action in industry because it is obvious that without united action a few selfish men in each competitive group will pay starvation wages and insist on long hours of work. Others in that group must either follow suit or close up shop. We have seen the result of action of that kind in the continuing descent into the economic hell of the last four years."

Must Not Happen. "If all employers in each competitive group agree to pay their workers the same wages—reasonable wages—and require the same hours—reasonable hours—then higher wages and shorter hours will hurt no employer. That is the simple idea which is the very heart of the Recovery Act."

"But if any considerable group should lag or shirk, this great opportunity will pass us by and we will go into another desperate winter. This must not happen."

Mr. Roosevelt then explained the copies of the blanket agreement for shorter hours and higher wages had gone out to all employers, and he asked that every employer come in under this agreement. He emphasized the need for small employers throughout the country to join this. He announced, too, that he would cause to be posted in every post office of the country an "honor list" of those employers who were taking part in the movement.

On Sound Basis. The president explained at the outset of his address that the recovery program was built up on a sound basis which embraced four months of work in re-establishing credits in the country. Also, he declared, the United States have now been organized so that they are operating at a profit rather than a loss.

Huge emergency expenditures entailed as a result of the recovery program, embraced in the $3,300,000,000 appropriation for the Recovery Act. Mr. Roosevelt justified as self-liquidating to a large degree. He predicted half of the amount expended would swiftly flow back into the nation's coffers, and added that the projects would in the end pay for themselves directly or otherwise.

There was not a word about the recent downward movement of the stock exchange or the violent fluctuations of commodity prices on the exchanges in the address. It was made clear at the White House some days ago that the president does not feel there is any reason to interfere with the stock market. He felt that many stocks had been run up to prices beyond their value through speculation, and regarded a reaction as inevitable and not unhealthy.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, at the president's direction, has applied the weapon of "pitiless publicity" to the grain exchanges, showing the various operations affecting prices. The president felt this to be an effective method.

distinguished statesman, was to discuss policies of tax exemptions, a vital problem in every state, while Governor McNutt was to speak upon "enlargement of executive authorities."

Decries Exemption. Discussing tax exemptions with newspapermen before making his scheduled talk, Governor Cross decried certain organizations now seeking—or having—exemptions. "Many so-called charitable school and religious bodies," Governor Cross declared, "make a virtual racket out of present day laws for tax exemptions. I am convinced that there must be changes made. I will present the matter for deep consideration of my fellow governors."

Governor J. G. Pollard of Virginia, announced that an informal round table discussion would follow Governor Cross' talk.

stated today, the increase in traffic being steadily growing. Ten additional brakemen have been recalled to work at the start of this week and few furloughed men are not working at the present time. Those who are not being used on regular runs or in yard work, are being given employment on track repairs and other duties of a similar nature, it was stated.

During the past three weeks, approximately 60 furloughed firemen have been marked up for regular duty, and many engineers who had been put back firing are now handling regular runs on the road and in the yards. Practically all engineers who started handling engines in 1925 are back running again. Many of them had been firing and were reduced to the extra list before bus-spring.

Regiments Scatter To All Parts Of Big Reservation At Camp Rickards

ONE GUARDSMAN SUFFERS OUT

(International News Service)

CAMP RICKARDS, MT. GRETTA, Pa., July 25.—Marching away in units of battalions, close to 5,000 soldiers of the Pennsylvania National Guard went about martial duties to all parts of the big military reservation here today.

The huge guns of the 107th field artillery, under Col. Eric Wood, Pittsburgh, and the 108th field artillery, under Col. William A. March, boomed for the first time yesterday since they arrived in camp last Saturday.

The 1st battalion of the 108th, with horse-drawn 77 mm. field pieces and the 1st and 2nd battalions of the 107th, using tractor-drawn 155 mm. guns, participated in a long day of practice fire into the side of South Mountain.

Quick Decisions. Staff officers of the 56th infantry brigade, consisting of the 111th and 112th infantry regiments, under the leadership of Brig. Gen. Robert M. Brookfield, endeavored to stem the invasion of a mythical black enemy from beyond the Susquehanna River.

Troops in the field were represented by headquarters companies of the two regiments and the brigade and officers of the staff. The problem required the officers to go out over the terrain, effect a reconnaissance, and then to make a quick decision when a certain enemy situation confronted them.

Corp. Edward A. Pecharo, of Norristown, suffered a severe cut on the right eye when he was struck by the heavy steel door of an army tank while bending over the motor making repairs. The accident occurred when a fellow member of the 28th tank company opened the door to get out of the tank.

BATTLE ON WAGES FOR LABORERS ON FEDERAL PROJECTS

of the 30-hour week on all public works so far as possible, labor is demanding a sharp increase in the hourly rate.

The issue is understood to be causing difficulty in the allotment of rivers and harbors contracts and flood control. Charges of peonage in flood control work on the lower Mississippi river brought a congressional investigation last year.

With work already under way as a result of funds advanced from the $3,300,000,000 fund, swifter action was indicated in the near future. The public works board decided to meet twice each week at regular times to canvass projects.

Local Labor. In announcing grants of $19,851,648 for federal public works, the public works board made public a resolution requiring the use of local labor and materials as far as possible.

It was said this policy would be enforced on all projects, but if building or other materials in a locality increase the cost of a building unreasonably, other material may be used.

The first allotment for post offices included but 14 buildings estimated to cost $6,971,648 but it was promised that other grants would be approved in the near future.

Director of the Budget Lewis Douglas has been made the " czar " of federal buildings. In each case his word that the buildings are needed and the government will save money by building them, will be required.

Sally only knows—
"It's so very GOOD"
BUT SALLY'S MOTHER KNOWS—SHE NEEDS ITS EXTRA BENEFITS TOO!

Of course children think Post's Bran Flakes is just delicious to eat! But wise mothers know that it also acts as a safe, simple precaution against constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet . . . an often unsuspected trouble that may lead to listlessness, ill temper, "low" spirits.

For years, Post's Bran Flakes has served as a safeguard against this condition . . . For it provides the necessary bulk that so many foods lack . . . thus helps to prevent intestinal sluggishness, and to insure normal elimination of food wastes. It is also rich in phosphorus, iron, and Vitamin B.

That is why Post's Bran Flakes belongs to this proven program: Outdoor exercise . . . water to drink between meals . . . fresh fruits and vegetables in the diet. And a generous daily helping of Post's Bran Flakes.

All your family will love it, plain, or with fruits or berries . . . So start serving it today. Order the large-size Economy Package—a product of General Foods.

LITTLE IMMIGRATION

DURING the first eleven months of the fiscal year which ended on June 30, according to figures presented by the U. S. Immigration office, the total number of immigrants coming into the United States legally was less than 8,000. Up to that time (May 31) the government had issued visas for 3,879 preference quota immigrants and for 3,361 non preference immigrants. These figures are all the more significant when it is recalled that under the quota authorization just 153,831 immigrants could come into the United States during the year, which means that during the first eleven months of the year only a small percentage of those who could come in, have entered. When the figure is compared with the millions who entered and the additional thousands who sought to enter in the years immediately following the war, we get some idea of the efficiency of our present immigration laws.

Part of the falling off is due, of course, to the depression, but there can be little doubt that a great deal of it is the result of the tightening of the regulations for entry, a process which was entered into under President Hoover, who did not feel that we ought in time of crisis, take in immigrants who would become public charges. The recent record of most countries is that they have received back from the United States more native sons than have been sent into our country.

The United States of course owes a great deal to its healthy immigration during the early days of the republic. But we have now "grown up" as a nation and great immigration is no longer needed. Immigration during the past few years has not been so satisfactory, in part due to the many radicals who have come to us out of hatred to their own form of government. What we need now is quality rather than quantity. The quantity has fallen off. Let us hope we will get only quality in the future and that no weakening of the present laws will be attempted.

INCREASED OCCUPANCY OF FARM HOUSES

An increase in the reoccupancy of farm houses in Pennsylvania is announced from Harrisburg on the basis of reports from federal and state crop reporters. Farm-working families are living in more than 86 per cent of the dwellings and families not engaged in agriculture are living in almost 11 per cent, leaving scarcely two per cent idle.

A year or more ago, it may be recalled, one of the commonwealth's departments discovered a great number of deserted farms all over the state furnishing shelter to non-rent paying squatters whom the owners of the property had elected in most cases not to disturb. Comment was made at the time on this development. In the practice was seen a human adaptation of the custom of the hermit crab which, not being endowed naturally with a shell of its own, finds the discarded shell of some other creature, crawls into it and retains it for an abode until outgrown. Evidently this class of vagrant tenants has largely given way in Pennsylvania to a group of settlers with more fixed intentions in relation to economic responsibility.

Occupancy of farm houses is said to be greater now than in 1928. It has been particularly noticeable in the northern half of Pennsylvania. Reoccupancy for farm purposes has been marked in the Schuylkill-Pike county area and in the Beaver-Jefferson area. Occupancy by non-farmers has been marked in the central region from Dauphin and Columbia to Clearfield and Cambria. Part of this movement is obviously an escape from metropolitan rents and taxes. Some of it is a bona-fide migration back to the soil. The reflow seems to indicate a continuing tide. Perhaps, indeed, the cities have reached their peak of population. While some new set of circumstances may later reverse the present trend, the ensuing fluctuations are likely to be temporary until the rural and urban systems come into national balance.

EQUALITY IN ALIMONY

We like that new alimony law in Illinois under which men are made eligible to a privilege formerly confined exclusively to women. In this day of equal rights and equal opportunities in the business and professional worlds for women, we can see no reason why they should have a monopoly on the privilege of receiving alimony.

Alimony awards recently have been made to two men, one woman being ordered to pay her former husband, now unemployed, $2,000 in weekly installments of $10, and another compelled to pay the husband she is suing for divorce temporary alimony of $350 a week. The second also must supply feed milk and eggs to her mate from their jointly-owned farm.

Alimony has become a legal racket. The laws of most states relating to it need to be changed. There are cases, of course, where such payments are just, but there are many others in which they are unfair. To make alimony laws applicable equally to men and women would be some improvement. In taking this step, Illinois stands as a mark at which other states well might aim. Sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander.

ROBOT AIDS POST'S FLIGHT

Wiley Post, whose assistant pilot in his round-the-world flight is an automatic device, declares this gadget is a marvelous thing. It can be set for altitude and course, and "it promptly flies the plane, keeping it level and correcting for wing heaviness or bumps more speedily than any human hand can do." The mere turning of a little knob, every 20 minutes or so, corrects the compass course.

The most helpful thing about the device probably is that it eases the strain for the human pilot. Post says he can relax, study his maps and look out at the scenery. The machine makes it possible for the man to do a careful job of navigating, by releasing him from rigid concentration on the controls.

The instrument does not think for a pilot. If emergencies arise, the human flier has to determine what to do. He has to set the controls correctly. The robot assistant is an aid, not a substitute. Intelligently used, it makes the man's work easier and more accurate. That is what machinery ought to do wherever it is used intelligently.

COLLEGE-BRED CHILDREN

As parents of young people who have been graduated from college, you may think that they have received but little valuable information.

The thought often comes that they might have been better off if they had procured jobs when they received their diplomas from high school.

Four years ago it was easier to get a job than it is now. But you feel they might have been established sooner, whereas now there are so many without work and unable to get any work to do.

Isn't you a little narrow in your attitude?

You can recall opportunities you might have embraced if you had had a better education and more preparation.

Many times through life you have regretted that your educational advantages were so limited.

You did not want your child so handicapped.

And now that you have provided the education you are prepared to back-track just because you can't see results in dollars and cents immediately.

Be glad you did your best to supply education.

Remember that it is unfair to judge adversely in these times if your college-bred children can't as yet make a living.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A SAD AFFAIR

The young author, who had been having a slack time, unfolded his tale of woe to a friend.

"Yes," he said, "the income tax people sent me an ominous-looking letter. I opened it, as you can imagine, with trembling hands."

"Sir," it read, "the assessor of taxes is dissatisfied with your statement of last year's income, or words to that effect."

"What did you do about it?" asked his friend, trying to be sympathetic.

Wrote back and said, "Dear sir, you are not half as dissatisfied as I am."

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

STARTING FROM HERE

Who cries: "We're starting over!" I remember long ago
A score of treasured friendships that we hadn't come to know.
Though we were young and hopeful when our fight for fame began,
We'd less of faith and wisdom to support our little plan.

Who says we've fallen backwards?
Here we are and here we stay,
Proud possessors still of treasures we have gathered on the way.
It is true we've lost some money, but we will not have it told.
In the years that lie behind us we've been working just for gold.

Who's the poor man of the morning?
Just the starveling soul who thought Alone of yellow money and the tawdry stuff it bought.
Chance has stripped his purse of dollars and he's sorely now bereft.

If he looks his long life over and discovers nothing left.
But we've friends to aid and counsel, and we've faith to hold us fast;
We have countless happy memories we can cherish to the last.
We are older, yes, and wiser in the lore of peace and pain,
And with all the years have taught us we can go to work again.

THE SHEPHERD'S TREE
Huge elm, with rifted trunk all notched and scarred,
Like to a warrior's destiny I love to stretch me often on thy shadowed award.

And hear the laugh of summer leaves above,
Or on thy buttressed roots to sit and lean
In careless attitude, and there reflect On times, and deeds, and darings that have been—
Old castaways, nor swallowed in neglect;
While thou art towering in thy strength of heart,
Stirring the soul to vain imaginings.

The wind of that eternal ditty sings,
Humming of future things, that leave the mind

THE REASON THERE ARE TOO MANY SARDINES IN A CAN IS BECAUSE EVERYBODY'S TOO POLITE TO TAKE THE LAST ONE.

DANGEROUS ADVICE
A beautiful female screen star said in a recent interview: "No women should marry before the age of 30."

Oh, Lady, Lady where did you get that stuff?

Or, if it is original with you, by what process of reason or logic do you feel so sure that you are right in advising no woman to wed until she is 30?

Lady, does not your woman's intuition and accurate appraisal of the main chance, tell you that if the great majority of girls were to stall off all serious-minded suitors until they were 30, they would lessen their chances of ever getting married?

The reason they wouldn't be as apt to get married is not because, at 30 they'd decided that spinsterhood is preferable to matrimonial partnership with any man, but because they wouldn't be so likely to get proposed to.

Now you know very well, Lady, that love and romance flower at their fullest in youth—at, say, between the ages of 18 and 25. The period between represents the age at which Cupid makes the highest score with his little bow and arrow. After 30, Dannie is not nearly so likely to make a bull's-eye.

Moreover, the longer the male guy who wants to marry the girl of his choice is stalled off, the more likely that lass is to lose him altogether.

After 25, hardening of the sentiments begins to set in, and a man starts to acquire symptoms of bachelorhood. He begins to wonder, whether he'd better get married at all. He looks around and observes that some of the matrimonial ships of his friends have gone on the rocks, and he decides that perhaps he'd better not take a chance.

The prospect of yielding his freedom and pay-envelope to any woman makes him cautious and canny. The result is that he is apt to slip easily into the comfortable rut of a confirmed and hard-boiled bachelor. After that Lady, a girl has as much chance as vamp, hook and play that guy as a snowball has to survive in a blast-furnace.

But when he was 20 that same fish, if a girl had dangled a winsome smile, or a luring eye before him, would have swallowed hook, line, sinker and one of the oars.

Therefore, Lady, why do you tell the girls they should not marry until they are 30? You've very well know it is dangerous advice.

Civil Service In Postoffice Revives Patronage Debate

President's Request For Legislation And Order For Temporary Action Are Commended, While Practical Results Are Widely Debated

President Roosevelt's request for legislation extending the Civil Service provisions to postmasters of the first, second and third classes is generally conceded to be in the interest of good government. The supplementary order on the subject, to be applied immediately to such offices, is included in the debate on the use of competitive examinations as affecting patronage. It is estimated that 15,000 positions are affected. The attitude of members of Congress is a subject of speculation. "The plan," says the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE, "apparently will diminish the number of 'political patronage' jobs by some thousands. Should it be followed by congressional enactment of the Roosevelt-recommended bill placing all postmasters under Civil Service, divestment of the postal service from politics would be practically complete. Only Southern Senator predicts the measure's defeat. The fate of that bill is of less pressing consequence than the executive order prescribing the method of appointments to be made in the immediate future. It should ease somewhat the tremendous pressure exerted upon the Administration by place seekers and their political sponsors, and perhaps that is its purpose. And for every disappointed politician that resents the implied personal or tribal loss of 'patronage,' we dare say there will be not less than a hundred citizens, interested greatly in governmental efficiency and little or not at all in political dictation or manipulation of appointments, who will quietly but heartily approve of the President's reported 'move' to place all postmasters under Civil Service."

"Removal of these places from political control," according to the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, "has been the goal of friends of good government for fifty years. Some headway was made when postmasters of the fourth class were placed under Civil Service. Although they are the most numerous—there are 32,367 of them—they are least important. President Roosevelt's order now affects 1,112 postmasters of the first class, 3,425 of the second class and 10,485 of the third. These are the postmasters of the larger towns and cities whose postal receipts amount to $1,500 a year or more. Everyone who believes in the substitution of the merit system for the spoils system in government will look upon the President's order as a great piece of good fortune. The nation's opinion of Mr. Roosevelt will rise accordingly, for he has done what no President since Grover Cleveland has dared to do. Besides, he has given the best answer to those who have been charging that under Farley's direction the government was 'being turned over to the politicians.'"

"The natural assumption," remarks the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BELL, "would be that Democrats who could make the grade would be preferred, but the reasonable inference of the order is that the grade must be made and that party service is to be a secondary consideration. Postal service has been a very considerable part of the pot of political patronage in the past, but there has been a steady trend toward the elimination of business practice in this branch of the Federal service. The order will disapprove a lot of hungry persons throughout the country and comes with shocking suddenness. But it may be that the President, with major perplexities crowding around him, has become wearied with the task of finding his way through the maze of political maneuvering and in this manner frees himself for more important duties."

With a suggestion of filling the jobs "first with good Democrats," the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE concludes: "Of course, if an executive order can put jobs under Civil Service for the benefit of deserving Democrats another executive order can take them out of Civil Service for the benefit of returned Republicans. But it probably has not escaped Mr. Farley's astute board of strategy that this would put on any Republican administration that did it the onus of cutting down Civil Service. All in all, the plan looks quite a lot better from the standpoint of its looking to perpetuate their spoils."

Dairy products produced 61.4 per cent of this amount, leading all other branches of the farm industry, while chickens and eggs brought in 16.2 per cent of this amount.

Field crops yielded 6.7 per cent of the total, fruits 4 per cent, truck, nursery, and greenhouse products, 5.4 per cent; forest products, three-tenths per cent; and other livestock and livestock products, 6 per cent.

Mayor Charles B. Wayne tells a good one regarding the efforts to collect fines for violations of the parking regulations of the city.

Recently a letter was mailed from his office to an offender, who had a Pittsburgh address, advising him that he owed this city one dollar for a traffic violation here.

A reply was soon forthcoming but it was from the wife, not the man in the case. She advised the police department here that it was some time since she had seen her husband and she was quite anxious to do so and would the department here advise her, when they got in touch with him, as she also wanted to come out and get in touch with him.

Miss Julia McCoy, Judy to you, and Julia McCoy on the stage, seems to have "hit" in Cleveland, O. This week she is appearing with Benny Davis, the song writer in his act in the Hippodrome, Cleveland, and is described by the critics there as "a find."

Benny Davis, if you never knew it, discovered such stars as Ruby Keeler, Helen Kane, Hal LeRoy and a host of others. He has written countless song hits and the fact that Miss McCoy is with his act and has drawn the attention of the critics sounds mighty good.

Suspension Halts Big Grain Trader

Edward A. Crawford, With Enormous Wealth In Sight Is Suspended From Market

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 25.—Creditors today began liquidating the accounts of Edward A. Crawford, spectacular trader whose suspension from all trading privileges by the board of trade ended a fling in the market which started on a shoe-string, and grew to 25 million bushel proportions.

Crawford and Leon A. Strauss of Harper, Strauss and Company of Des Moines were suspended by board of trade directors for "inability to meet obligations."

Crawford's vast holdings in grain were held largely responsible for the suspension of trading Friday and Saturday when he was unable to furnish ample margin. He is credited with having attempted a corner on rye.

Little street traders agreed that had the speculative markets held and had he unloaded he would have gathered in one of the nation's biggest fortunes.

Ten years ago as a New Orleans dentist Crawford began trading in cotton on a small scale.

Cleveland Banks Pay Out Millions

Guardian And Union Trust Companies Of Cleveland Pay Depositors

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, July 25.—Five months after the institutions passed from the field of unrestricted banking, accounts of the Guardian and Union Trust companies were reopened today for the payment of the first dividend to depositors.

Gathering early for the long-awaited event, hundreds of smiling and jubilant depositors surged through the lobbies as the doors of two downtown banks were opened for the pay-off.

Only those depositors with more than $100 in the bank were in the long lines, awaiting to receive their checks. Depositors with less than $100 on deposit were paid by mail last week.

A total of $57,047,000 was to be paid out as the first dividend of the bank to 430,000 depositors. Nearly 300,000 were paid a total of $4,000,000 by mail. The remainder was to be delivered in person to the larger depositors.

The amounts received represented only a percentage of the deposits. Depositors of the Union were granted 35 per cent and those of the Guardian 20 per cent.

County Men On Relief Jobs Here

Eighty Of 100 Put To Work On Cascade Boulevard

Harry Hoskins, municipal engineer stated today 100 work relief employees from county points today were sent to aid the men working on the projects being put through on the work relief plan. Approximately 80 of the men were sent to Cascade boulevard. Their work consisted of digging, screening and spreading gravel on the boulevard.

Cascade boulevard extends from Hamilton street over the New Castle Street Electric company right of way to Cascade park. While it is possible to operate automobiles over the roadway it has not been opened. The roadway is rough but after several days work it may be made smooth. One of the jobs remaining to be done is to construct the wings to the concrete bridge built near Hamilton street.

(International News Service)
COLD SPRINGS, N. Y., July 25.—Frank Early, 25, just released from Dannemora, is behind the bars again today, held without bail for the grand jury on a charge of attempting to kidnap Edia Neumogen daughter of Manfred Neumogen, wealthy resident of Lake Mohopac and formerly of New York.

Modernization Of Military Aviation Force In U.S. Urged

Italian Seaplanes Flight
Over Atlantic Causes America To Start Thinking

Aviation Force Not Adequate To Ward Off Foreign Nations; Need More Planes

Immediate modernization of the entire American military aviation force is being urged by outstanding students of aviation as a result of the remarkable flight of Gen. Balbo and his fellow Italians. The following article is a forerunner of the fight to be made for funds.

By REP. JOHN J. McSWAIN
Chairman House Military Affairs Committee.

Written Expressly For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The visit of Gen. Balbo and his associates not only arouses my admiration but provokes some thinking.

No round-the-world trip of any warship or fleet has ever impressed the people of the whole world as this spectacular flight of 24 planes.

They cost perhaps $10,000,000, the minimum cost of a cruiser. America, the home of aviation, should not ignore the lesson. Undoubtedly we are neglecting our personnel and deliberately refusing to organize our forces. None are so blind as those who will not see.

A separate department of aviation in command of all our military air activities and training is the answer.

I favor the use of $120,000,000 of the appropriation for public works to be devoted to aviation and modernization of our ground forces.

Doubtless the Italians and the rest of the world wonder why America lags behind. This is the machine age and nations will fight with machines in the future. Unless we build machines in peace time and train with them, then preparedness with us is a mere name and sentiment, and not a fact.

France with 4,000 planes, Italy with 2,500, England with 3,000, Russia with 2,000—where would we be with our force of 2,400 planes, one-half of them unfit for combat in war.

Guard Entry Ports.

We have 12,000 miles of frontier, every inch of which is an entry port for invading air fleets. We must have enough heavier-than-air and enough lighter-than-air forces to patrol and defend every inch of this 12,000 miles.

Ships must enter ports to effectively land troops. But there are not entry ports for airplanes.

Camp Phillips Boys Laugh At Heat Spell

Boy Scouts Keep Cool While Mercury Soars—Camp Closes Saturday

Camping time for boy scout troops of Lawrence county is nearing its end at Camp Phillips, the 29th being the final day of the 1933 season for the scouts along the Slippery Rock. The last week finds scouts from New Castle 6, V-15 and 55 in their quarters in the units; V-18, the Ellwood troops and V-37 having cleared Saturday and Sunday after a court of honor on Friday evening that bestowed well earned awards on a number of campers.
Troop camping gives each scout more of the regular camp routine to handle himself, and the troop activities (except swimming and lifesaving) are handled by the troop leaders; but many troops have made some real progress in camping in spite of numerous handicaps. It seems that two types of camping (mass and troop) will be needed to give both the new and the experienced scouts and leaders, the right kind of a time at camp next season.
The camp had some real nature study the past week when a pair of baby raccoons were found heading up from the Indian village trail; two more having been found a fortnight ago. The first pair were turned over to a deputy game warden and the last pair went to the Jordan Game farm where Superintendent Wurfels is taking care of them for awhile.
Swimming and lifesaving have been the main activities during the hot spell, and Sandy Howard has been kept extremely busy with large classes in both these water projects. It looks as if a good sized class will graduate during the coming week.
Wednesday and Saturday afternoons are visitor's days, and a campfire on Friday evening will feature the closing ceremonies. Regional Assistant J. Lee Calahan visited camp for short calls on Wednesday and Thursday but was compelled to move on to the next camp inspection, so could not stay over as he would have liked to. He noted the newly grouped huts and the re-roofing improvements and gave the usual camp inspection.

THE BEST BUY IN SAFETY!

THE BIGGEST BUY IN MILEAGE!

WHAT makes more people want—and BUY—more Goodyear Tires than any other kind?

They cost no less than other tires—so it must be because they give more at the same price.

Look at these facts and judge for yourself.

More SAFETY—by 10 to 77%

Everyone knows that brakes may stop your wheels—but it takes tires that grip to stop your car.

And by actual, impartial test on flooded concrete, cars equipped with Goodyear Tires stop quicker than any other tire can stop them. The next best tire skidded 10% farther—and others skidded up to 77% farther than Goodyears!

Just look at a Goodyear and you'll see why that's so. Goodyears give you traction where you need it—in the CENTER of the tread where it contacts the road.

SAFETY from blowouts in every ply

When any ply in a tire breaks down, it increases the hazard of blowouts. But Goodyear builds every ply of every Goodyear Tire, a safety ply with Supertwist cord—a full ply from bead to bead. This patented ply material protects you from blowouts because it can stretch and come back under the heat and strain of driving. Any Goodyear dealer can show you how it keeps its life and stretch long after ordinary cords break down.

97% more mileage by actual records

Because Supertwist cord also increases mileage—because Goodyear treads are built tougher every year—the accurate records of the nation's largest bus fleets show that Goodyear average mileage has increased 97% in the past five years. And you get the same features—the same improvements in Goodyear Tires for your car.

The best time to buy is NOW

The price of everything's headed UP. Cotton's up 100%—rubber's up 100%—the price of tires is bound to follow. So check up your tires now and replace risky, worn-out, slippery tires with the best buy in safety—the biggest buy in mileage—Goodyear Tires—preferred by more people than the THREE next largest selling makes combined.

Touhy And Gang Facing Trial As Hamm Kidnapers

Roger Touhy And Three Companions Identified As Kidnapers Of Milwaukee Man

ELABORATE GUARD SET UP BY POLICE

Will Be Tried Under New Federal "Lindbergh Law" And Face Life Imprisonment

(International News Service) MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 25.—Federal authorities, guarding against a possible rescue attempt, today made ready to convey Roger Touhy, Chicago, a leader and three henchmen to St. Paul where they will be given a speedy federal trial as the kidnapers of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire brewer.

To prevent a rescue by the gang of two score gunmen commanded by Touhy, an elaborate guard of federal deputy marshals and police was enlisted for the trip to Minnesota.

Federal warrants charging the quartet with the abduction were issued here after Hamm identified the Touhy gangster at a secret showing up in Chicago. The gangsters are charged with abducting Hamm as he was strolling to his St. Paul home and holding him at a hideaway in Wisconsin for a ransom of $100,000.

Face Life Terms

Touhy's three companions are Willie Sharkey, Gus Schaeffer and Eddie McFadden. All have police records.

Touhy and his companions will be tried under the new federal "Lindbergh law" which allows a sentence of up to life for transporting a person across a state border for ransom purposes. In addition, the gangsters are liable to a term of up to 20 years for sending ransom demands through the mails.

Push Movement

For New Bank At New Wilmington

Depositors Hear Report Of Investigation At Washington, Monday Night

Spurred on by the report of the Depositors Committee which reported Monday night to a group of approximately 300 depositors of the First National Bank of New Wilmington, plans for the organization of a new bank in New Wilmington are going forward today with renewed vigor.

The committee consisting of Attorney Walter W. Braham, W. W. Campbell and H. R. Patton, recently made a trip to Washington to confer with the Comptroller of Currency and were informed that under no circumstances would the First National be permitted to reopen.

Endorse Spokane Plan

The so-called "Spokane Plan" was approved by the depositors and taking the word of the Comptroller, "that the work of reorganizing the new bank would fall largely upon the depositors" an intensive effort is being made to dispose of the necessary stock and get the new institution opened.

The new bank will have a capitalization of $50,000 and a surplus of $10,000. When and if the new bank is opened, it will immediately take over 100 per cent of all secured accounts, which is public moneys and fifty percent of all unsecured deposits, which represents the deposits of private citizens. All of the liquid assets of old bank will be taken over and as the other assets are liquidated, the proceeds will be applied to the obligations yet due. Depositors of the old bank will have 50 per cent of their deposits immediately available in the new bank.

Stock is being sold in the new bank, and the response to the invitation is meeting with success. The meeting Monday night of the depositors was informative and definite in that information and out of it will come a larger response to the stock selling campaign. The depositors hope to get the new bank open and doing business within a reasonably short time in order that at least fifty percent of the deposits may be available.

Only Few Days To Get Tax Discount

Rush of property owners to pay their county taxes and save the five per cent discount is now on at the office of County Treasurer William O. Pitts. After August 1 county taxes must be paid at their face. Treasurer Pitts will keep his office open on Saturday afternoon for the accommodation of persons who cannot get there before that time.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A three fold program for control of price fluctuations on the New York stock exchange was proposed today by Senator Steiwer (R) of Oregon, after demanding an immediate inquiry into the causes of the recent collapse in market values.

Steiwer asked legislative, administrative and business leaders to study his reform program, which he will sponsor at the next session of Congress. He urged:

1. Publication of a simplified report through the treasury on the assets of all corporations.

2. Adequate curb on short selling.

3. A ban on increasing, slashing or passing of corporate dividends without the consent of stockholders. Steiwer meanwhile telegraphed Ferdinand Pecora, special counsel for the Senate banking and currency committee urging an immediate inquiry into the causes of last week's market crash.

Consider Drastic Rules. WASHINGTON, July 25.—Drastic new regulations to prevent speculative abuses in the grain trade were under consideration today at a conference between administration leaders and spokesmen for grain exchanges, elevators and mills.

These regulations will be embodied in a "master" grain code to be filed under the industrial recovery act.

Pending approval of the code, minimum prices will continue to be "pegged" automatically on the exchanges and severe restrictions against price fluctuations above the maximum will remain in effect.

The grain men were informed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that President Roosevelt wants the movement of values to "proceed in an orderly fashion" and that before the "master" code is approved by the administration it will be analyzed carefully with this aim in mind.

Charles J. Brand, farm relief co-administrator, warned the conference:

"The government is not going to invest more than $100,000,000 in wheat production control for the coming crop year and then let the marketing of grain go on in the same old way."

Gabby Street Back On Farm

Cardinals Reward Streets For Winning Two Pennants And Championship By Dismissal

FRANKIE FRISCH IS NEW LEADER

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 25.—The blistering climate of St. Louis may be an excellent place for a rheumatism cure but it is far from healthy spot for baseball managers. Frankie Frisch, who replaced Gabby Street as head man of the Cardinals, is the seventh pilot the club has had in eight years. And Bill Killefer was fired as the Browns' manager only last week. Street, who was back on his farm in Joplin today hoeing corn as his reward for winning two pennants and a world championship, set a modern record at that. Ever since Branch Rickey got the hook in 1925 the average Cardinal manager had lasted about as long as a case of beer at a picnic, but the old Sarge stuck it out for more than three years.

Gabby knew his number was up and for months he has been digesting predictions that Rogers Hornsby would replace him. The fact that Frisch got the job instead of Hornsby indicates the Rajah is slipping badly as a managerial menace.

Hornsby Out
Hornsby for years was the bogey man of all National league managers. Frisch's appointment means Hornsby will again be treated to a change of scenery next year, for the two get along about as smoothly as oil and water. The Rajah likely will bob up as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

In picking Frisch, owners Sam Breadon swallowed his prejudice against playing managers. There are now six of these in the Majors, the greatest number in years.

Street is the third big league pilot to get the gate within six weeks, the others being Roger Peckinpaugh of Cleveland and Bill Killefer of the Browns. Gabby, like many contract bridge players, made the mistake of leading his aces too frequently. He overworked his big mound stars, Carleton and Dean, and his other hurlers failed to come through, with the result that the Cards lost 11 out of 17 games during its recent home stand.

Frisch always has wanted to be a manager. He almost connected as McGraw's successor and also just missed grabbing the post left vacant in Brooklyn by the departure of Uncle Wilbert Robinson.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON
Central Press Association

IN LINING UP CLUB-FACE KEEP EYE ON BOTTOM EDGE OF FACE.

ALEX. MORRISON says:
The numerous lines and edges on the striking surface of a club very often confuse the player when it comes to lining up the clubface for a shot.

The average player makes the mistake of aiming with the top edge of the face. This edge does not always run true to the rest of the striking surface. Particularly with wood clubs.

As you go to place the clubface at right angles to the intended line of play, keep your eye on the bottom edge of the face and this will give you the most accurate position for your club. Do this with all clubs.

Ellsworth Vines Talks About His Collapse At Net

By ALICE LANCELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1933, By International News Service)

PARIS, July 25.—"It was the sun that knocked me out."

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American national tennis champion, whose collapse at the net in his match with Fred Perry of Britain furnished a sensational ending for the Davis Cup interzone final, gave this explanation Monday in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

He was keenly disappointed over the fact the United States lost the round to Britain 4-1, although his own match with Perry was played after the issue at stake had been decided. The match went to Perry 1-6, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, 7-6 and default.

"I was foolish," Vines said as he walked the length of his room in the Hotel George V. in a bathrobe and bedroom slippers.

"I sat in the sun and watched all through the match between Wilmer Allison and 'Bunny' Austin before my own game, and as you know, that often makes one just as nervous as though he was playing himself."

"I don't think the thing can be ascribed to overwork. I felt fine when I went on the court, but I soon began to feel woozy and attributed it to the unusual heat. We didn't have any such hot weather as Wimbledon and I wasn't accustomed to it."

Vines scouted the theory frequently voiced in the European Press that young American athletes habitually overtrain.

"I hardly think that goes for me," he said. "I have been feeling so good that overtraining is out of the question."

Ryantown And Colonial Clash

Ryantown and the Colonial A. C. baseball teams will clash at 6:30 p. m., D. S. T., on the Colonial field. Both are good teams. A big crowd of fans is expected to see the clash.

BONNETTS FACE BOOSTERS

Tonight at the Spencer Field on Moody avenue, the fast Bonnetts mushball team will play the Boosters club. Wednesday the Radiators will be met at Dean Park. Thursday the Third U. P. team will be the opponents at Rose Avenue Field. Di Thomas featured at bat with a homer. The Bonnetts would like to hear from teams in the city and county for games. R. P. Vigniano is the manager of the Bonnetts.

Legion Of Honor Golfers Score Low

Shoot Good Golf In Weekly Match At Municipal Links Monday Evening

With Capt. Wilbert Chapman, of the Cavaliers, still absent from the city, his teammates failed to rally to the cause last evening, and were lacking in numbers in the weekly golf match of the Legion of Honor last evening. As a result, Sweezy's Swashbucklers again turned in a victory, their average being 49.2 against the Cavaliers' 50.5.

All this was in spite of the sharp-shooting of Russ Melvin and Dr. Ralph Campbell, who turned in the low scores of 44 each. They were one point higher than Dr. Jay Reed, however, who shot a 43 to be medalist for the evening.

Capt. Sweezy had five men on his team who were under 50 last evening. Sweezy himself shot a 46, while Leon Drumm had a 48, McCann a 48, and Dr. W. D. Cleland and C. E. Allen had 47's.

Maybe some of the hot golf shot Sunday was still in the air, for the boys were blazing them over the fairways in great shape, long drives and brassie shots being the order of the evening.

BONNETTS SPLIT GAMES

Bonnetts mushball team went to Youngstown and split a double bill with the Mitchells, the Bonnetts losing the first game 9 to 8, and winning the second game 13 to 2, with Bob Pascarella the winning pitcher. Di Thomas featured at bat with a homer. The Bonnetts would like to hear from teams in the city and county for games. R. P. Vigniano is the manager of the Bonnetts.

Pirates-Cubs Starting Series With Twin Bill

Pittsburgh Hopes To Pick Up Few Games At Expense Of Chicago Cubs

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 25.—They muffed their chance to slam themselves within half a game of the lead in their series with the Giants here last week, and Sunday they dropped two games to the Cincinnati Reds, and today the Pirates mix with the winning Chicago Cubs in a double header here this afternoon.

Both clubs rested yesterday for this afternoon's contests, it will be the Cubs' opportunity to recoup the lost chances of last week. But the Cubs are a tough club to beat, having played pennant ball to win 15 of their last 17 contests. Only two games behind the league leading Giants, the Chicago boys are within grabbing range of first place in the league.

Manager Grimm will be represented on the mound by two right handers, Bud Tinning and Lonnie Warneke, both classy men, while George Gibson's pitching selections are Hal Smith and Steve Swetonic.

WEST SIDE INDIES

West Side Indies baseball team handed the Austin A. C. a 8 to 7 setback at the Glasser Field. Davies on the mound for the West Side Indies hurled a five-hit game. W. Hughes was the pitcher for the losers. Hughes, featured the game with a homer. Smolocki, Hill and Wheale also hit the ball hard.

FORCED TO MAKE THE 100 MILE RUN ALONE

FORD V-8 DOES 19.2 MILES PER GALLON OF GASOLINE

LAST Tuesday, in order to definitely determine the relative fuel economy of the Ford V-8 and leading light six-cylinder cars, we published an advertisement in this paper, inviting dealers for light "sixes" to a comparative 100 mile Economy Run.

We felt that if their cars were capable of beating the Ford V-8 in fuel economy, they would welcome the opportunity to prove it. Although the Ford V-8 motor is larger and more powerful than any light six in its price class, we did not ask a handicap on that account.

Not one dealer accepted our invitation!

However, we had determined that the automobile buyers of this city should have the true facts about Ford V-8 gasoline consumption . . . not mere rumors, claims and opinions . . .

So yesterday a Ford V-8 made the proposed run alone!

To make this run an open book, we invited the public to check every detail. We invited them to watch the fueling of the car before it started, and the accurate measuring of gasoline consumption at the end of the run — also to follow the car over its route.

The car was driven at a rate of speed that materially reduces gasoline mileage. The mileage obtained gives indisputable proof of the economy of the Ford V-8, and substantiates our statement that THE FORD V-8 WILL MATCH ANY LOW-PRICED SIX-CYLINDER CAR, MILE FOR MILE, IN GASOLINE ECONOMY!

MERCER IS GIVEN SCHOOL FUND NOW

MERCER, Pa., July 25.—The Mercer school district has received $7,209 from the state on payment of its appropriation. This money comes at a very opportune time. It required the borrowing of money to pay the teachers at the close of the school term due to their funds being tied up in a restricted bank, otherwise the district would have been in a position to meet its obligations as they came due. Better than four-fifths of the taxes were collected.

Pinchot Renews Fund Appeal

Asks For $12,000,000 Additional U. S. Money For State Roads

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 25.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, today renewed his appeal to Secretary of Interior Ickes for $12,000,000 additional money for highway work in Pennsylvania, and said he could "report progress."

After $19,000,000 was allocated to Pennsylvania from the public works road fund recently Ickes turned down Pinchot's plea for an additional fund. Pinchot also laid the question before Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. He said plans for spending the $19,000,000 had been sent to the bureau of public roads and he hoped road work could begin soon.

Mrs. Pinchot, who accompanied him, appeared gratified over reports of wage increases. She recently engaged in picketing "sweatshop factories" in Pennsylvania.

"The situation has been somewhat improved especially in Reading," she said.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 25.—Police today were guarding a North Side man in the Allegheny General Hospital where he was recovering after killing his estranged wife and attempting suicide last night.

Slashes Wrists

After strangling and chloroforming her as she struggled in his grip, Thompson slashed her wrists.

Police, warned by neighbors who discovered the tragedy, found a letter Thompson had written yesterday, blaming his marital troubles on relatives and a rival.

The golf tee-off was scheduled for 1:30 o'clock while the banquet tonight will be served as soon as the players return to the Castle Club quarters at the hotel early this evening. A program will follow the dinner.

Officials of the "Kensington" include W. Keith McAfee, R. W. Rowland, Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, R. E. Long, J. R. Frew and H. C. Heck. More than 35 members belong.

Heavy Trucks Are Menace To Bridges

Older Structures Not Built For That Kind Of Traffic, Says Elder

Heavy truck traffic is proving disastrous to many of the bridges of Lawrence county, according to County Commissioner, P. O. Elder.

"The older bridges, were not built for this kind of traffic," says Elder "and are beginning to show the effects of it."

During the past few weeks there has scarcely been a day on which the commissioners have not been called to some bridge, that is needing attention. In many of these cases the floors have been found to be damaged but in other it has been found that bridges have been sagged by the heavy trucks.

In the opinion of the commissioners the county will have to spend considerable money during the next few years in putting bridges in shape. Had it not been for the fact that a number of the larger bridges have been taken over by the State Highway department, the county would have been swamped with debt in keeping up the bridges. Repairs are now being made on the Breakneck bridge across the Slippery Rock.

Bass Fishermen Make Reports On "Big Ones"

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, July 25.—The bass season is now in full-swing, and with waters clear in many sections of the state, fine catches are being reported to the Fish Commission by wardens. In addition to black bass, which are regarded as outstanding game fish in Pennsylvania's inland waters, anglers are taking many wall-eyed pike or Susquehanna salmon and pickerel. A number of muskellunge have also been caught in waters in the northwestern section of the Commonwealth.

The largest bass reported to date was taken in Lehman's Lake, Pike county. The fish, a largemouth bass, weighed 8 1/2 pounds. Two Pittsburgh anglers tied for honors on Conneaut Lake when each landed a muskellunge weighing 15 pounds. A wall-eyed pike weighing 9 1/2 pounds was also caught in Conneaut, while Lake Wallenpaupack yielded a 9-pound wall-eye.

Maryland Yellow-Throat Warbler Keeps Up Song

By OWEN PENFIELD FOX

If you were to look for the nest of the Maryland yellow-throated warbler, most of us would probably search among the trees, but in many cases we would find a nest built in the bunch grass at the base of blackberry reeds, and if you would search among the big leaves of the skunk cabbage plant, you may find a hidden warbler's nest. The skunk cabbage gives off a most unpleasant odor, and four footed animals do not like its foulness and always avoid it, hence the yellow-throat is safe in building its nest among the big leaves, where its eggs, and later the young birds are safe from meddlesome creatures that would destroy them, therefore the lowly skunk cabbage is a benefactor by giving protection to one of our most daintiest of birds.

Many of our song birds cease to sing at mid-summer, you will notice the change in the song of the robin, and the half-hearted effort with which they send forth a note or two. And that great songster the song sparrow has slowed up its piping to a great extent. The wood-thrush has silenced its golden voice early in the summer. But the yellow-throat still sings its song that sounds like this, I See You Wee, I See You Wee. You will not hear the yellow-throat sing in wooded places but you will hear their song, and see them frequently in fields, that border wooded places. The beautiful yellow-throat is a great tease, it will lead you on by its short flights, just giving you an occasional glimpse. It will coax you through bushy places, and swampy meadows, always flying just ahead daring you to follow. Then suddenly you may find him turning over fallen leaves there searching for insects and spiders on which it feeds. The yellow-throat can be easily identified by the black mask it wears, I call it the robber bird. I have watched the yellow-throated warbler in late August, performing acrobatic stunts, by darting into the air for many feet hanging still on wing for a short time, then returning to a bough, and soon repeating its stunt over again. The Maryland yellow-throat comes to us in May, from the Gulf states where it spends the winter, and by September migrates back again to its winter abode. And for those who have heard the love song of the yellow, throat as it sings to its mate, have heard one of the sweetest songs of summer.

sparrow, sings all day, and the peewee with its plaintive call as the gloaming of night approaches seems to be the last bird call of the day, but when all is rest and peace, from far away comes the last call of the yellow-throat.

Thousands Of Fish Dying In Shenango

Complaint Is Made By Residents Of The City Adjoining The River

Thousands of fish of all kinds are being killed at the present time in the Shenango river in the vicinity of the Grant street bridge and down toward the Washington street bridge. They are apparently being killed by an acid getting into the river from some industrial plant up toward Sharon. Complaint was registered with Charles C. Withers, prominent sportsman of the city, who plans to take it up with the state authorities. An investigation will be made by Frank Coen, the game protector in Lawrence county.

Fire Alarm System Is Out Of Order

Hunting Ground In The System In The Conduits On Downtown Streets

Fire alarm system is only in use in part at the present time, due to a condition that has existed for several days and affected the entire system for a time.

The trouble is a ground in the system for the fire alarms at some point in the conduits in the downtown section of the city, according to George Nickum, city electrician, who has been working to correct the trouble for three days.

There are eight different circuits in the fire alarm system of the city and five of these are again working, but circuits No. 2, No. 3 and No. 6 are still out of order.

The trouble is believed to have been caused by electricity getting into the fire alarm lines in the conduit and burning them out, causing a ground.
